Introducing our newest CHAMPION

Our Wave earned her AKC CH in grand OH style, taking the world by storm, at less than 10 months of age.
Over two weekends, it was a wrap, winning 3 majors, 3 BOBs over specials, a Puppy Group 3 and OH Group 4.

Look for us at the PWDCA National in August.

We are excited about this combo issue of the Courier, featuring a combination of the 2022 Year in Review and Stud Dogs. In this issue, we will provide you with an in-depth look at the top dogs from 2022, accomplishments in our breed over the past year, and valuable information on stud dogs and breeding.

We also want to remind you that our National Specialty Show Issue is scheduled for this fall, and we would love to hear from you! Share your experiences, insights, and photos from the show, and we may feature them in The Courier.

We understand that our publication schedule has been irregular in the past year, and we want to assure you that we are committed to providing you with more regular and timely updates moving forward. We appreciate your continued support and look forward to bringing you the latest news and insights from our breed.

Thank you for reading The Courier, and enjoy this issue — safe travels to all heading to Albany, Oregon for the National Specialty.

President's Letter

Scott Henley

Welcome to the Year in Review (2022) and Annual Stud Dog Issue. As we transition from Spring into Summer, this issue reminds me of a couple of important things about this wonderful breed. First, how versatile and intelligent these dogs are. Just look at the Top Ten achievements from last year and all the new title holders! Second, how dedicated the people in this breed are. Every letter you see before or after the dog's name represents hours of training and love; and creates a bond that can never be broken. PWDs know and express love and joy through their work, whether jumping off a boat to retrieve what you carelessly tossed for the umpteenth time or free-stacking like they own the place. Just look at the photos in this and all the other issues. Pure Joy! Thank you for your love and dedication to preserving the Breed.

The Stud Dog portion of this issue reminds me of what an excellent job we have done, producing fabulous dogs that can still do what they were bred for. I know there's too much of this or not enough of that, but all in all, we have outstanding breeders who care about doing their best. And it is definitely, yea-person's work and not for the faint of heart. It also reminds me of the incredible responsibility breeders have for the future of the breed. And that responsibility applies equally to both the bitch owners and the stud dog owners, who are breeders too! Thank you for your dedication and mentorship. Please be as diligent with where that pick-of-the-litter male is placed as we are with our girls. And let's all continue to find ways to hold stud dog owners more accountable for the puppies they produce.

Most of you are seeing the Puppy Mill situation that has exploded in our breed in recent years. It is alarming. In the latest Board Meeting notes, there is a report and charts that highlight the situation. Thank you, Elsa and the Rescue Committee, for bringing this to the forefront again. And thank you, Rescue Committee, for the amazing job you have done in the face of this! Just a few years ago, the reports from rescue showed only a few dogs here and there. And there were more applications than available dogs. The number of dogs in the program has skyrocketed and rescue has been stretched thin. They have had to bring on more committee members (both regional and local) and find many more people willing to foster. If you can help in any way, please get in touch with Rescue and at least let them know you are there. In the meantime, the Board of Directors and Rescue are working together to come up with ideas to slow some of this down, educate the public and steer them toward responsible breeders. And breeders... get out there and be found, mentor, and take great care where you place your puppies.

Lastly, I want to thank ALL of our volunteers...Past, Present & Future! From Deyanne Miller and others who have been involved for many years. To that toddler in your living room, sleeping with their best friend and maybe writing this letter to the membership someday. You are all valued, and the club would not be where it is today without you!

Enjoy this issue and the summer bonding with your dog(s)! See you in Oregon at the Specialty.

Scott

Booty

by Janet Boyd

Celebrating her 17th birthday in March, Booty is and always has been a force all to her own.

Arriving as the last pup of a litter of 10, she needed no assistance from mere mortals. Boo snuck into my life during a desperate attempt for me to nap after a long whelp. Booty has a very competitive spirit about her and has always prided herself in jumping the highest, swimming the hardest, and making the most of life in general.

Always the one that needed a lid to keep her contained right up to age 12, she has given me a break these last couple of years and more often keeps her feet on the ground. Containment has never been a thing for her and those who've shared rooms at the National can attest. She could always be found on the corner of the sofa when you returned to the room, looking at her humans with sympathy for underestimating her Houdini skills.

Always the craziest wild ride in agility. Leaping off tall buildings and creating a dust storm at the end of the collapsed chute. You never wanted to intimate the race was on with this little brown bullet as she took a challenge with great vigor.

Booty was a very willing water trial partner. A strong swimmer and reliable retriever. In our water trial chapter we were members of the Not Yet Apprentice Club. Though it wasn't for lack of talent or joy of the game...I'm guessing we passed a time or two if you added all the passed exercises together.

As mentioned before, this small but mighty brown girl was game for anything. One of my fondest trial memories with her was our national specialty run in Rally. I entered us in Rally on a lark to be able to enter Super Dog. I kept telling Boo we needed to practice this Rally thing. Weeks went by, the van was packed and we were on the road to California. I told Boo, "Don't let me forget to tell you about Rally! We'll work on that at rest area stops." Naturally there were other distractions at rest areas and next thing you know we are at the National.

We competed in water. We competed in agility. Then ... it's Rally day. I walk up to the ring gate and tell little brown Boo ..."Booty, this is Rally ... just listen to me and cross your toes!" We had lots of fun and gave our ringside friends a laugh or two or three and in the end (much to my surprise) got a qualifying score. Someone else had to tell me we passed as I was totally surprised and had refused to go check our score!

In her 17 years with me and my pack, she's been a great auntie to multiple litters of pups, teaching them some very valuable lessons about how cool brown dogs can be. She's attended 8 national specialties with me, moved to 4 different houses with me, and overall been a part of my life for longer than any husband!

Booty continues to surprise me daily with her get it done attitude. As an Ancient Mariner, these days her get-it-done is a potty break for that cookie reward at the end. She is quick to learn new surroundings and loves to snuggle with her housemates for long naps. She eats well and hates to be groomed...some things never change. People tell me they let you know when it's time ... Booty has more to do and continues to defy Father Time.

Love that Small by Mighty Brown girl of mine ...

"Stowaway Jeweled Pirate
"Booty"

3-21-06 to 5-18-23

Once in a while we get to share our lives with a great one. Great for the simple reason that they are a huge value add to our lives and all the lives of all those they meet. That was my Booty girl! Boo shared 6, 276 days with me and filled that time with so many memories. For 17 years she was a constant source of joy and laughter.

She was a self possessed and always willing to create adventures with me.

There are countless stories from my life with her and the many friends she has made over the years. She was mischievous to the core; excellent puppy auntie; great mole/squirrel hunter; great water dog; and totally reckless agility dog. For the majority of her life there was no fence that could keep her in, no doubt she climbed the Pearly Gate when she reached dog heaven rather than walking through.

I've read that every time we lose a dog they take a piece of our hearts with them, and every new dog who comes into our lives gifts us with a piece of their hearts. If we live long enough all the components of our hearts will be dog, and we will become as generous and loving as they are. Boo gave me a huge piece of her heart and that is likely why mine is breaking right now. I will miss that little brown girl forever. The memories of her will soon be a comfort....but for now my heart just aches...."

Ruby

by Karen Pratt

"Ruthie" as she was known by her former owner, came to live with our family about 6 weeks shy of her 10th birthday. We quickly started calling her "Ruby" and the name stuck, complete with a sparkly red collar.

Ruby's former owner was having health problems that necessitated re-homing her. The owner reached out to breeders in her local area because she couldn't get in contact with the original breeder. One of those breeders was Susan Cucura, who put out a Facebook post and I quickly responded. Susan put in a good word for our family, and we made arrangements to drive from Texas to California to pick her up! We were down to one dog, Lottie, who came to us as a puppy when we didn't have any adult dogs in the house, and she needed a four-legged friend.

It was quickly apparent that Ruthie had never missed a meal in her life! She was a hearty 74 pounds when we picked her up, thanks to years of eating only canned food. She was transitioned off of her canned food to a lower calorie kibble, we started taking her for regular walks, and she lost about 7 pounds in the first three months. The funniest quirk she came with: when she thinks it's dinner time, she will come up to you and start backing up until she runs into something. Sort of her way of saying "Follow me, it's time to eat!"

The previous owner had told us that "Ruthie" did not like men, couldn't pass her Therapy Dog test (because of the food), and wouldn't swim. So that obviously set out some training challenges for us! The first thing we did was to sign up for Therapy Dog classes. Both Lottie & Ruby took the classes, and both passed the test, not once but twice (since you have to test with the handler that might take you to the therapy settings). Once our pool warmed up, we started swimming with her.

As long as there is a treat involved, she loves to swim! Not to mention that it helped keep her active during the hot Texas summer.

Because she wasn't supposed to "like men," we decided to allow her to sleep in our teenage daughter's room. Because our daughter was dealing with some anxiety and depression at the time, it really helped her to have Ruby be "her" dog. With her gentle nature, Ruby has been a great informal therapy dog for our daughter over the past five years. But do you want to know who her absolute favorite person is in the house? It is, of course, my husband, Steve! She will go on longer walks with him than with either me or Emma. Probably because he always has some sort of yummy treat stashed in his pocket!

In 2021, Ruby had to have a toe removed due to cancer. As I sat down to write this article, she was heading into surgery – at the ripe old age of 15 + 1 month – to have a tumor removed from her elbow. It ended up being a soft tissue sarcoma, and she has healed completely from that surgery. She is definitely slowing down, but she is happy, healthy, and very entertained by our newest PWD, Dylan, who is 3. And she is now down to 55 pounds soaking wet. Each day with her is a precious gift, as we've never had a PWD live past the age of 10. She is our happy, chill, laid-back, but always hungry girl.

Fina

Ch Peja Forever Fina of Hope BN RE
CGC TKI JWD TDI

by Christine Peper

for another dog, but visiting Fina and her litter mates was a beautiful and healing experience for me. When she came home, she would lick the tears from my face, and we became a team.

While she is a good worker who has always done what I have asked of her, Fina is also a downright goofy dog! To amuse herself, Fina would toss a plush toy in the air and make the often-futile attempt to catch it. When the toy inevitably landed behind her, Fina would look front and to both sides, puzzled until she turned around and leaped on it.

Besides being a fun-loving gal, Fina has a strong work ethic and simply LOVES to have a job to do. She is a natural in the show ring being graced with beautiful movement and topline. She is a moderate bitch and has kept her gorgeous black coat well into her teens.

She enjoyed showing and finished her championship easily with Katie and I owner handling. I have always-groomed her and even though we are both a little slower these days she still looks wonderful.

Fina is a joy to train and loves performance activities, so once we attained Fina's AKC Championship, our team competed successfully in Obedience, Rally, Water Work, and had fun playing Agility. We participated in the then new-ish sport of rally obedience which may be the favorite sport for both of us. With her goofy personality and love of training, Fina really enjoys learning new tricks and practicing ongoing obedience work. We continue to train every day and, even at her advanced age, Fina is a joyful participant in these activities.

Fina's real place to shine has been her Therapy Dog work. Her favorite people are children and senior cit-

In spring of 2008, Katie Barrett-Kramer of Hope Kennels bred her girl Winnie (CH Sunjoy Wind of Hope) to my stud dog Dante (CH Peja Divine Comedy of Hope). They produced an exceptional litter of puppies that are the great-great-great grand-puppies of my foundation bitch, Brisa (CH Neocles Brisa of Peja CWD Am-Can CD CWD).

As the weeks of their fleeting puppyhood sailed by, I made many visits and began forming a special bond with one black curly ball of fluff who would crawl in my lap and lavish me with sweet, tender puppy kisses. It was obvious this little one had made a decision, and she was insisting that she would be coming home to live her life with me.

The puppy's name became Fina, as she was so fine and beautiful. She is also the most affectionate dog I have ever had. She has the softest eyes and she used them to show her affection to me and the rest of her new housemates - including her grandsire, Mico (CH Peja Comico Cabrito).

When Fina came into my life, I was facing a time of personal grief and physical challenges. I was not looking izens; Fina has brought smiles to the faces of elderly nursing home residents and enchanted boys and girls with her natural love and affection. We have been visiting nursing homes for years and continue to do so.

Fina had a litter in 2012, and she was an excellent mother who produced the lovely pups Ian, Ivan, Sherlock and Allie. Allie (MACH7 Peja I am the Grand Finale BN RN TD MXC2 PAD MJS4 PJD MFC TQX T2B12) has been nationally ranked in obedience and agility with her owner Carl Fredricks. Fina has been an excellent auntie to other puppies born to our household.

She has been blessed with excellent health and we are fortunate to have a vet who keeps her going with acupuncture and some chiropractic work. She eats a mostly home cooked diet to manage kidney disease and takes some supplements as well.

Fina is a good ambassador for the breed. She has participated in AKC Meet the Breed and Minnesota Purebred Dog Owners Association responsible pet owner events annually for 14 years. Her loving nature and beauty made her popular with everyone who met her.

If all goes well, Fina and I are planning to return to the show ring at the Minnesota regional specialty this August where she can strut her stuff and once again experience the joy of a grass ring.

Fina has been a joy as a companion, and I am so grateful to have this wonderful girl in my life.

Julie Bailey

We lost an amazing friend/sister. The strongest fighter I have ever personally witness battle stage 4 cancer.

Julie had years of connection, friendship, adventures, laughs and love, typically centering around dogs, good food and better wine. She whelped and raised many Yare litters and was proud to be a breeder of merit.

If you are fortunate to have one of her puppies you received a very special gift of love.

Julie was a marvelously talented photographer, with many of us the hands and body under the fabric in her remarkable puppy photo shoots. She could capture the essence of humans and dogs beautifully in studio or live action. Whether travel buddies to national specialties in motor homes or caravans or setting out for AKC Nationals, we always had fun.

Julie you were brilliantly smart, with a wit and charm that could make us smile and laugh in spite of the ick going on.

You were our muse, our mentor, our dear dear friend and our sister from another mother. We will miss you dearly our precious talented beautiful friend. Hugs and love to you always. RIP honey.

PWDCA Rescue

submitted by Barb Crowther - PWDCA Rescue Inc. President

PWDCA Rescue has been busy! The number of dogs coming into Rescue continues to increase as the public looks for family pets available immediately, as opposed to patiently waiting for those being bred by our preservation breeders with an eye to structure and health.

Just this past month, PWDCA Rescue has also been alerted to something we have not seen before. We were informed of six Portuguese Water Dog puppies being auctioned off at a registered dog auction house. The puppies came from mills who could not place them on their own.

We are placing 6 dogs now who come from a puppy mill. These are former breeding dogs who can no longer produce and the mill has decided to give them to a shelter. This is not unusual. These are purebred Portuguese Water Dogs. AKC registered and with pedigrees. As always, if we can contact any PWDCA breeder in the pedigree, we do. Unfortunately, these dogs usually trace back to breeders who have passed away or can no longer care for the dogs.

The Rescue numbers for dogs surrendered to PWDCA Rescue for adoption as of the end of the first quarter in 2018 was 3. In the same quarter of 2023, we had 18! In order to manage the increasing numbers coming into Rescue, we have added another National Representative to handle the Northeast Coast rescues. Thank you to Brad Wagnon for stepping into that role!

I am continually grateful for our Rescue reps. All of them are listed on our website. If you know them or see them at dog events, please take a minute to thank them for all they do. They must take the dogs for a vet visit, do evaluations, find a temporary foster, and then interview and vet potential families for the permanent adoption. This is not an easy job and it can be heartbreaking. With some of the dogs, we are faced with decisions that are extremely difficult. Our reps work tirelessly for each intake to try and ensure a good forever home.

There is so much wonderful information about our organization on the PWDCA website. Begin by reading our mission statement as established by our founding members at the time of inception. Learn all of rescue's contact, foster, and adoption information and don't miss the special section just for our PWDCA members to be able to read our Board minutes and learn more about our PWDCA Rescue.

We are indebted to Jennifer Wenk for maintaining this website and making sure to include all new information as she gets it. Thank you, Jennifer.

PWDCA Rescue, Inc.

Go on, foster a dog.....

PWDCARescue needs your help!

The Portuguese Water Dog Club of Greater Chicagoland can help our National Rescue organization by fulfilling an urgent need to foster PWDs being given up by their owners.

What is involved in fostering a dog?

Families are asked to take in a dog needing a home for a short period of time as they transition from their old home to their new one. It is important that these dogs are in homes with experienced PWD owners who can evaluate and assess their temperaments and any special needs.

Fostering is short term

Fostering is a great way to enjoy temporary ownership. Perhaps you are looking to add another dog to your family. Fostering affords the advantages of a companion pet for those who may not be in a position at present to have a permanent pet in the house.

Help is always available!

Our fosters work closely with our Regional and National reps. They are always available to help and advise. Fosters are not responsible for finding permanent homes. That is the job of our reps.

All dogs are given a thorough medical evaluation

On intake, the dogs are taken to a veterinarian for a check up and expenses are paid for by the PWDCARescue.

PORTUGUESE WATER DOG CLUB OF AMERICA – OWNER HANDLER AWARDS PROGRAM

The One N Only, Harvey

Written by: Amanda Ellery

From the very beginning I knew, I had a special boy. Every waking moment, there Harvey was, looking up at me as if to say, "what's next?"

Harvey is always looking for a job! I realized very quickly, I needed to keep this working boy busy!

So, our story begins!

Harvey was the only male in a litter of seven. When I got the word that he would be mine. The question became "What to name him?" A line from a favorite song, played in my head "I dare you to let me be your, your one and only". That was it! He was the only boy and was challenging me to take him on.

He will forever be Sweetwater Seas, The One N Only Harvey! At the time, I had no idea just how 'One and Only' he would become.

I had dabbled in dog sports with my other PWDs. Harvey was different. He wanted to do it all! Anything I asked, Harvey was ready. I just had to buckle up and hang on! Harvey has taken me on a journey I could have never imagined!

Beginning with AKC STAR puppy class, we worked our way through water work, obedience, agility, therapy work, conformation, scent work, and rally to earn the title of the 2019 PWDCA Super Dog. Over the years, Harvey has earned 68 AKC & PWDCA Titles including Platinum Register of Merit. Harvey has also titled in UKC/CKC/NACSW/NCA/ ARC/PSD/NASDA/CWAGS. He is currently a Master Water Dog 7 with 35 qualifying MWD runs. At 10 years old, he still wants and loves to work and is rocking the rings. Harvey is the ultimate teammate.

As we became more immersed in training and trialing, I was introduced to the PWDCA OHA group. I soon discovered; these were my people! Being a member of PWDCA OHA, I have found encouragement, friendship, understanding when things go wrong, and accolades when things go well. There is always someone ringside, cheering us on and a plethora of congratulations online. I am so thankful for this group of friends, inspiring me to do more with my dog and recognizing Harvey and me.

I hope my PWDCA OHA journey encourages you to get out there with your dog. If you're not a member of PWDCA OHA, you have an open invitation and a phenomenal support group to help you along your journey!

To me, Harvey is my "One and Only," the prefixes and titles are icing on the cake. Thank you, Harvey, for choosing me to be beside you on this journey.

31st Annual Portuguese Water Dog Club of America

NATIONAL SPECIALTY

Albany, OR | August 25 - September 01

On behalf of Team 2023, Molly and I extend a warm welcome to the 31st Annual National Specialty, to be held in lovely Albany, Oregon, at the Linn County Expo Center.

Many of you will recall that the 22nd annual event was held here. Different from 2013, this year's Water Trial will be held at Lowell State Park, just an hour's drive to the south! We imagine most of you have made your plans for accommodations and travel and have made your entries across multiple venues. If you haven't already, now is the time to make those last-minute registrations and purchases for people events such as our Wednesday night auction dinner and the Friday night awards banquet; both of which will be emceed by Mr. David Frei!

Following two plus years of planning, Team 2023 and dozens of chairs, committee members, and volunteers are excited to welcome you to Albany! We extend our heartfelt thank you to all those volunteers who have committed so much to support the PWD National Specialty throughout the week. For those of you who haven't yet, please consider signing up for a volunteer position. If you are new to the Water Dog community volunteering is a great way to meet new friends and to experience the depth and breadth of this dynamic community and the breed we love.

The week's activities will begin at Lowell State Park on Dexter Reservoir in Lowell, OR, just an hour's drive from Albany. Even if you are not entered in the water trial, consider making the drive a beautiful mountain lake setting to watch our breed engage in what they were bred to do. This just might inspire you to take up water training!

Next up, five days packed full of activities: competition, education, and camaraderie. This is a great chance to connect with old friends and meet new ones while sharing the passion for the Portuguese Water Dog. So many options from which to choose. If you haven't participated in a particular canine sport, carve out time to visit a venue that you've heard so much about, such as agility or perhaps scent work. Or, for a really fun diversion, check out obedience teams! And, don't forget the shopping! The boutiques, and vendors, may have just what you've been looking for.

Please be sure to take time to explore <https://pwd-cans.org/> for complete details on schedule of events, accommodations, The Store, trophy sponsorships, and contacts as well as the most current updates. Whether this is your first national specialty or your thirty-first we are here to help make your week a successful, enjoyable and memorable one. Please reach out to us if we can be of assistance in advance or at the show!

In addition to the National Specialty, Albany and the surrounding areas have so much to offer. Explore the vineyards and natural beauty of the Willamette Valley or take a leisurely drive to Newport, just an hour away, on the coast. If it's a hot day you may want to dip your toes in the cool Pacific Ocean! And, if you find yourself with a bit more time, take a drive to Multnomah Falls on the Columbia River Gorge. (Be sure to get a permit at <https://www.fs.usda.gov/recarea/crgnsa/recarea/?recid=30026>). Or, stay a bit closer to the show site, and check out the historic downtown area of Albany where you will find some great restaurants and shops.

Until we see you next month, have a great summer and we wish you safe and easy travels west! Remember... out west our states may be large, but the memories from the experience promise to be even larger!

Welcome to Albany!
Matthew Davis, Molly Speckhardt, and Team 2023

Goal Setting With Your Performance Dog

by Kathy Butkovic

Goal setting is essential to training and working with a performance dog. Because there are so many available disciplines for our family pets and canine athletes to participate in; you first must make some choices.

Would you like to finish an AKC title? Become a top-ranked PWD in a specific canine sport? Compete competitively in the PWDCA National Specialty Super Dog Competition. Introduce your dog to Water Work and work towards a title?

For instance, if you'd like to finish your dog's American Kennel Club Champion title, you will want to make sure your dog is in proper condition, in good coat & groomed well. Add to that, being well trained to participate in the show ring. In the show ring, your dog must stand for examination and move around on a leash. It sounds quite easy, but there are pieces of that simple idea that are a little more complicated.

Allison Alexander of Leading Edge Dog Show Academy has a great YouTube channel with valuable FREE information. One of those videos is called "The Best Dog In 2 Minutes" and explains why the above is important. PWDs are a hands-on breed, and it's important to give the judge the best opportunity to evaluate your dog by having them well trained and well prepared.

HERE ARE SOME STEPS TO HELP YOU SET EFFECTIVE GOALS FOR YOUR PERFORMANCE DOG IN A VARIETY OF VENUES.

1. Define a clear objective: Determine what specific skill, behavior, or accomplishment you want to achieve with your performance dog. It could be winning a particular competition, mastering a new trick, improving obedience, or excelling in a specific sport. With this, consider the timeline of competitions such as Water Trials or the National Specialty. Are you looking for a Top Dog status? Check out the last three years to see how many points it took for the #1 or Top 5 dogs in the sport you're interested in.
2. Break it down: Once you have the overall objective, break it down into smaller, achievable steps. Identify the individual skills or behaviors that need to be developed to reach the ultimate goal. (i.e., The retrieve for Water Work, weave poles for agility, duration in standing for examination in conformation showing). This allows you to focus on specific areas during training.
3. Make your goals SMART: Ensure your goals are Specific, Measurable, Achievable, Relevant, and Time-bound (SMART). This means clearly defining what you want to accomplish, making it quantifiable (e.g., improving agility time by 2 seconds), setting realistic expectations, aligning it with your overall training objectives, and assigning a deadline for intended completion.

4. Prioritize and sequence: Determine how you'll address the goals. Prioritizing foundational skills before moving on to more advanced or complex tasks is often beneficial. This way, your dog builds a strong foundation and progresses systematically. Maybe you'd like to earn your CD obedience title in 2023. Getting positive ring time for both dog and handler and training classes may be beneficial. You may want to seek out a fun obedience match or start with your BN obedience title before making the leap to CD.
5. Be realistic and flexible: Set goals that are challenging but attainable. It's important to be realistic about your dog's abilities; consider factors such as breed characteristics, age, and individual strengths and weaknesses. Adjust your goals if necessary, based on your dog's progress and any unforeseen circumstances that may arise.
6. Plan your training sessions or training class schedules: Regularly assess your dog's progress towards each goal. Keep track of achievements, milestones, and areas that require further improvement. Writing notes about each training session is ideal, but even a recap can help you assess progress and plan future training sessions.
7. Monitor progress: Regularly assess your dog's progress towards each goal. Keep track of achievements, milestones, and areas that require further improvement. Writing notes about each training session is ideal, but even a recap can help you assess progress and future training sessions. Monitoring progress helps you identify what's working and what adjustments might be needed in your training approach or planning.
8. Celebrate milestones: Recognize and celebrate your dog's achievements along the way! We tend to forget this very important point. Training towards any goal takes dedication to learning and time away from other areas of our everyday lives.

Celebrating along the way can boost motivation and strengthen the bond between you and your dog. Rewards, praise, and high-value treats can reinforce positive behavior and acknowledge progress.

9. Seek guidance if needed. If you need clarification on setting goals or encountering challenges, consider seeking advice from experienced trainers or joining dog training clubs or communities. They can provide valuable insights and support and help you refine your goals. Look for people who have been where you want to go! There are many online training options and communities if you don't have people in your dog sport and/or area.

Remember, each dog is unique, so tailor your goals and training approach to suit your dog's needs and abilities. Most importantly, it's not just about our dogs but also about being honest with ourselves as handlers. I don't know about you, but I'm often my dog's weakest link. Look for opportunities to improve your goal, or ask a trusted trainer or dog friends for helpful feedback.

Patience, consistency, and positive reinforcement are key components in reaching your performance dog's goals. Lastly, remember to dream big! My friend Lee Ann always says to seek out BHAGS ... Big Hairy Audacious Goals. Your dog is so capable, and so are you.

Obedience, A Little History

by Verne Foster

The Obedience committee, which has been active since 1986 was designed to highlight folks who were showing in obedience and to motivate others to join and work their dogs.

Back in the early days, very few dogs competed and those who did were ranked in 2 ways . First, according to their average score and then by dogs defeated. Kitty Braund, the editor of the Courier, wanted to have a ranking system unique to the breed and encompassing more than the average score and defeated dogs.

In 1988 the PWDCA Ranking system was created, modeled after the Dalmatian Breed system. The PWDCA Obedience System, with only a few changes over the years, is still used today. It highlights 3 facets of a competitive dog's obedience record: their overall average scores, number of defeated dogs for placing PWDS, and every qualifying score according to an established point schedule.

In analyzing the system, there is a fairness to it... For example, one could ask if a dog who placed in a class with a lowish score defeating other dogs is better than a dog who did not place at a trial in another region but qualified with a high score. The higher scoring dog also does not show a lot but maintains a high average. Both those dogs have a place in the PWDCA system. As does the dog who perhaps rarely places in a class but is a consistent qualifier show after show.

Every PWD who shows and qualifies in the Obedience ring in regular classes is included in the calculations. Statistics are collected from the AKC performance reports that are sent to the committee each month.

Over the years, awards have been given to the top dogs in Novice ,Open and Utility as well as to the dog with the Highest 3-score average going for any title. Additionally, there is a Top Over All award for the dog with the Most PWDCA points of all classes.

The rules of the PWDCA system can be found in the PWDCA.Org website for members.

Congratulations to our Top Ranking Dogs and Handlers

2022 Multiple Achievement Certificate Program Report

Amanda Ford, Awards Committee

Based on the variety and number of MAC applications we received, 2022 was a busy and active year for PWD owners and their dogs! As usual, the applicants highlight the amazing versatility and resourcefulness of our breed and their owners.

In 2022 there were 93 MAC certificates awarded to 48 dogs. A total of 22 MAC-1 certificates were issued, fourteen MAC-2, eleven MAC-3, nine MAC-4, ten MAC-5, eight MAC-6, one MAC-7, two MAC-8, and MAC-9, two each of MAC-11 and MAC-12, three MAC-13, two MAC-14, one MAC-15, and one each MAC-28 to MAC-31 (all earned by one dog.)

Browse through the accompanying list of 2022 MAC recipients. The dog names are shown as they were listed by the applicants, and the diversity of titles both front and back shows just how diverse and multi-talented our breed can be.

The PWDCA Multiple Achievement Certificate Program (MAC) was developed to recognize the many PWD owners and dogs that are out there training and competing in dog sports, regardless of registry, area of competition, or title. Any nationally recognized dog sport event that awards a title can be used toward a Multiple Achievement Certificate, and great breadth and depth of achievement are necessary to meet the program requirements. The MAC-1 is awarded for earning seven titles in a minimum of three different areas of competition. The MAC-2 and higher levels require an additional six titles from three areas for each level. For those who like a goal to help fuel their training efforts, there is plenty of challenge for you here!

Applications in 2022 included titles from the more "traditional" areas of competition like conformation, agility, rally, obedience, water, tracking, and scent work. Other areas include barn hunt, coursing, tricks, dock diving, therapy, parkour, and freestyle, among others.

This variety of activities is what the Multiple Achievement Certificate program is designed to recognize. Areas of competition may include any nationally-recognized canine event or organization that issues titles, as long as there is documentation of the title earned. Remember that only titles, not certificates or awards, count toward the Multiple Achievement Certificate with the exception of PWDCA and PWDCC Junior and WWDX certificates. The complete program description and application can be found at www.pwdca.org under Activities and Events Awards Programs.

Thanks to everyone who submitted a MAC application for sharing your activities with us! And many thanks to our MAC administrators who process all of those applications (Barb Crowther and Kathy Souza) and to Barb Crowther for formatting, printing, and mailing the certificates.

GCHG Success' Wild Card Of Good Fortune

Breeder: Nancy J. & Trevor G. Sedlacek, & Grace M. Fritz

Owner: Nancy J. & Lowell G. Sedlacek

Handlers: Kami West, Paul Catterson and Sydney Essebagger

What do you think one of the biggest challenges in planning and executing a show dog campaign is?

Scheduling. Working to manage a schedule for shows can be a full time job in itself.

How important is advertising when it comes to executing a top dog campaign? What do you think the most successful advertising avenue is for future owners wanting to campaign their dogs?

Advertising is an extremely useful tool in campaigning your dog. You are able to highlight wins, give information, and get your dog noticed globally. Fellow dog enthusiasts, as well as judges of your breed, are able to follow your success in the ring.

What was your favorite moment, or favorite win, from 2022's campaign?

Group One with Judge Barbara Dempsey Alderman, we miss her so much. She was a wonderful advocate for our Breed.

What is a 'can't live without' product or item in your tack box while showing? (Examples: Certain brand of shampoo or styling product, favorite lead or bait, toy or canine bff)

Actually 3 items: Ace's favorite grilled chicken breast, his special kangaroo lead of black, gold, & purple, and his lamb stuffy.

Pat Trotter said best, "Not all pets are show dogs but all show dogs are pets". What does your dog like to do when he's home and off the road?

Ace loves to do zoomies in the back yard, roll in the grass with his stuffed toys and his best girlfriend, and snuggle with us in bed at night.

What is next for your show dog? Retired? Still showing? Other plans?

Ace took a nice break and is now showing at select venues/shows. He is also busy playing with his puppies and enjoying life.

#4 PWD All Breed

Marinella's Run Devil Run

BIS MBISS GCHG Marinella's Run Devil Run CGC TKN

Breeder: Kristle and David Marangon, Natasha Wilson

Owner: Candice and Jason Duclos (Co-owner: Kristle Marangon)

Handler: Tiffany and Shea Skinner, assisted by Andrew Mueller

What do you think one of the biggest challenges in planning and executing a show dog campaign is?

Endurance! Campaigning a dog requires a lot of blood, sweat and tears! It's not just showing up to the show on the weekends and hoping for the best. So many hours go into grooming, conditioning, traveling and having fun! Because it

#4 requires so much work and can be literally exhausting, I have often said it is not worth it if you can't enjoy it and have fun!

How important is advertising when it comes to executing a top dog campaign? What do you think the most successful advertising avenue is for future owners wanting to campaign their dogs?

I did almost no advertising during Riot's career because it just wasn't in my budget. He still managed to do very well, but I don't have a realistic guess on how advertising may have helped him to go further. I am now campaigning his daughter and using advertising through the Canine Chronicle. While it certainly hasn't hurt her I don't know how much judges really pay attention to it. I also feel that social media is a big form of advertising as it's so widely used and seen by many in the dog show world - judges, handlers and exhibitors alike.

What was your favorite moment, or favorite win, from 2022's campaign?

We had lots of special moments in 2022 but watching Riot win breed, with his up and coming daughter right behind him on a consistent basis for opposite was extra special, particularly at various supported entry shows. I know that sounds silly but she was out of his first litter and seeing the two of them do well together consistently was very rewarding and special to me.

What is a 'can't live without' product or item in your tack box while showing? (Examples: Certain brand of shampoo or styling product, favorite lead or bait, toy or canine bff)

Plush Puppy Revive a Coat. It is literally magical. It is a mousse base that you can put directly into coat to condition and protect it and/or dilute it down with water to use as a grooming spray.

Pat Trotter said best, "Not all pets are show dogs but all show dogs are pets". What does your dog like to do when he's home and off the road?

Riot loves to just be with his people and is up for just about anything we ask of him. He is absolutely obsessed with his stuffed animals and carries one everywhere he goes and offers it to anyone who comes to the house. He loves to play fetch and swim. He believes swimming is a year round sport, even in the dead of a Washington winter when the ocean water is frigid.

What is next for your show dog? Retired? Still showing? Other plans?

Riot is currently taking a break living the couch potato, spoiled pet life. We will be seeking his reinstatement soon and then hope to show him here and there for a few special shows to wrap up his career. We are so incredibly proud of all he has done, and even more thankful for the PWD daughter he gave us! If I can ever find the time I'd love to see what he thinks of agility, rally and some of the other performance sports!

#3 PWD All Breed

Marinella's Smooth Criminal At Arkangel
 MBIS MRBIS MBISS GCHG Marinella's Smooth Criminal at Ark Angel CGC

Breeder: Kristle and Dave Marangon and Natasha Kramlich
 Owners: Laura Thost and Kristle Marangon
 Handler: Laura Thost

What do you think one of the biggest challenges in planning and executing a show dog campaign is?

Unfortunately the cost is the most inhibiting aspect and no one is willing to back a dog not handled by a professional handler.

How important is advertising when it comes to executing a top dog campaign? What do you think the most successful advertising avenue is for future owners wanting to campaign their dogs?

The most important advertising is your dog itself! Being out at bigger shows having them seen in more places than your immediate area is very helpful. Ads in the big publications can work in getting your dog seen and talked about.

What was your favorite moment, or favorite win, from 2022's campaign?

In Luciano style he won 2 best in show placements last year even only being out a handful of weekends. I'm not sure I can pinpoint a single time I could say is my favorite, but, every time I see the joy and excitement on his face when the crowd cheers loudly for him and he kicks it up a notch it makes me proud to follow him around that ring like we own the whole venue.

What is a 'can't live without' product or item in your tack box while showing? (Examples: Certain brand of shampoo or styling product, favorite lead or bait, toy or canine bff)

I never leave home without my Ryan's Pet long slicker. I even have a box of several new ones that I'm sure my husband rolls his eyes at.

Pat Trotter said best, "Not all pets are show dogs but all show dogs are pets". What does your dog like to do when he's home and off the road?

Lu and my whole PWD pack love chasing me on our 4x4 across the pastures, helping me with farm chores, cleaning the milk mustaches off the bottle lambs, and of course swimming.

What is next for your show dog? Retired? Still showing? Other plans?

We have 3 final goals. He currently holds 9 BIS and I hope we can get into double digits. We would like to try Westminster once more because I want to see him light up with a BIG crowd. Last, but not least ,we want to participate in Superdog at the national.

#2 PWD All Breed

Watersong Pouch Cove Resolute

Breeder: Mary Oldham, Milan Lint, Peggy Helming

Owner: Milan Lint, Peggy Helming, Mary Oldham

Handler: Michael Scott

What do you think one of the biggest challenges in planning and executing a show dog campaign is?

The team must set a goal at the onset of the campaign, such as the number PWD in breed points, all breed points, Working Dog rated, etc. It's important to have a mutual understanding of the objectives, as that helps guide the campaign.

How important is advertising when it comes to executing a top dog campaign? What do you think the most successful advertising avenue is for future owners wanting to campaign their dogs?

Advertising is not especially important to having a top ranked dog at the breed level. It does become more of a consideration for group and best in show rankings. Advertising does not need to be a weekly activity. A well placed, impactful ad every month or so in a key publication can be very effective.

What was your favorite moment, or favorite win, from 2022's campaign?

Specialty wins are our favorite wins. In November 2022 Lute won the Northern California specialty. Then, at the all-breed he went on to win the breed, the group and best in show later that day. That was a successful ten hours!

What is a 'can't live without' product or item in your tack box while showing? (Examples: Certain brand of shampoo or styling product, favorite lead or bait, toy or canine bff).

The water spray bottle - for both the coat and the occasional drink. We don't use styling products and we use very little bait with the specials.

Pat Trotter said best, "Not all pets are show dogs but all show dogs are pets". What does your dog like to do when he's home and off the road?

This particular dog is home quite a lot as he is only shown a couple weekends a month. Lute hangs out with us, young Tiki and the three bossy Affenpinschers. He is a great dog to live with.

What is next for your show dog? Retired? Still showing? Other plans?

Lute will likely be shown sporadically throughout 2023. After that he will attend select specialties.

BOWIE

GCHP2 Far Away Black Star CGC TKI

Breeder and Owner: Laura Taft

Handler: Kimberly Calvacca

What do you think one of the biggest challenges in planning and executing a show dog campaign is?

Creating the mindset that the campaign is around education and teamwork keeps the volatility of winning (and not winning) from reducing your joy for your dog. It is a great deal of stress to campaign. There are many choices to make in a campaign such as grooming, conditioning, show selection and advertising. Having a team that embraces the journey is essential.

How important is advertising when it comes to executing a top dog campaign? What do you think the most successful advertising avenue is for future owners wanting to campaign their dogs?

Advertising is a challenge, as social media changes the platform. Facebook is a big platform and hard to deny as a venue for promoting your dog. The other essential platforms include DN Magazine, Canine Chronicle and Showsight. Each of these have options for online and print. Pick one or two, and focus there. It is difficult to use all platforms.

What was your favorite moment, or favorite win, from 2022's campaign?

Winning any All Breed Best in Show and RBIS is thrilling. Watching the 7 Group winners is a stunning line up of 7 dogs to see. Even better may be winning a Specialty. Bowie won three out of the four regional Specialites hosted by Mayflower and Nutmeg (his daughter Vesper, Bowie x Johnna won the fourth). Bowie went on to earn a RBIS at the Greenwich Kennel club under esteemed judge James Reynolds. That was a very special award.

What is a 'can't live without' product or item in your tack box while showing?

Utsumi Poodle comb and scissors are my most used. I also hugely depend on the Chris Christensen combs.

Pat Trotter said best, "Not all pets are show dogs but all show dogs are pets". What does your dog like to do when he's home and off the road?

Bowie LOVES to retrieve anything! His joy in working for the ball, the stick or the tug makes every day bright. It brings him so much JOY.

What is next for your show dog? Retired? Still showing? Other plans?

2023 is a year for Bowie to rest, reset and enjoy a less pressured daily life. We are working on more games with retrieving that build on his love to work. And we have some water training plans for summer of 2023.

Stud Dog Directory 2023

The Courier* is pleased to present the 2023 Stud Dog Directory featuring 32 dogs.

All dogs advertised in the 2023 Stud Dog Directory comply with the health testing recommendations of the Portuguese Water Dog Club of America, Inc. for dogs being used for breeding. It is noted that for tests which require only one parent of a breeding pair to be tested, advertiser is allowed to list the dog as 'Not Tested.' In such cases, per the PWDCA recommendations, the dam would need to be tested prior to breeding.

Listing a dog does not imply endorsement of the dog by the PWDCA. Due to the possibility of errors when transferring data from health records or pedigrees, it is recommended that if you are interested in a dog, you obtain the original health test documentation and pedigree directly from the stud dog prior to breeding.

The Courier has made every effort to publish name and titles as accurately as possible with the information submitted. Pedigrees and titles within the gallery are supplied directly by the advertisers. If any errors are noted or updated information obtained, The Courier has made appropriate corrections. Titles may not be complete. Names may not be correct. The Courier does not assume responsibility for errors to pedigrees or titles.

FOR THE Searching SUPERIOR Sire

Many breeders labor numerous hours in the serious quest to select the superior sire for their bitch.

We attend numerous shows. When close, we visit other breeders and when far away, we use email. We analyze pedigrees and photographs, and we compare strengths and weaknesses. We gather information on as many dogs as possible in the pedigrees of potential sires and we observe and evaluate some of their get by other bitches. And, when we are all through and the puppies are squirming and squeaking in the whelping box, it is hoped that our labors have secured the litter of a lifetime.

Mother Nature, however, can be fickle and jealous. There is always the ever-present possibility that the litter could be a catastrophe. Why? How could this happen when everything was so carefully planned? Not very often, but on rare occasions, what promises to be a stellar success on paper turns out to be a dismal failure in the whelping box.

Almost without exception, we are fortunate to discover that we get out of a breeding exactly what we put into it... time-wise, energy-wise and quality-wise. If our bitch is of less-than-average quality, no amount of time, effort or money spent searching for the superior sire is going to justify the breeding. No

Many breeders labor numerous hours in the serious quest to select the superior sire for their bitch.

We attend numerous shows. When close, we visit other breeders and when far away, we use email. We analyze pedigrees and photographs, and we compare strengths and weaknesses. We gather information on as many dogs as possible in the pedigrees of potential sires and we observe and evaluate some of their get by other bitches. And, when we are all through and the puppies are squirming and squeaking in the whelping box, it is hoped that our labors have secured the litter of a lifetime.

Mother Nature, however, can be fickle and jealous. There is always the ever-present possibility that the litter could be a catastrophe. Why? How could this happen when everything was so carefully planned? Not very often, but on rare occasions, what promises to be a stellar success on paper turns out to be a dismal failure in the whelping box.

Almost without exception, we are fortunate to discover that we get out of a breeding exactly what we put into it... time-wise, energy-wise and quality-wise. If our bitch is of less-than-average quality, no amount of time, effort or money spent searching for the superior sire is going to justify the breeding. No stud dog, regardless of his conformation strengths and show record, can be expected to work miracles.

Assuming that your bitch is of sufficient quality that warrants breeding, we will of course want to use a stud dog that will allow us to build on her strengths while replacing her faults with his virtues, thus producing a litter of puppies of better quality than both sire and dam. If we are planning the breeding of a bitch whose pedigree we know little or nothing about, we are in the unenviable position of considering only her strengths and weaknesses, without the benefit that knowledge of her progenitors would provide. We must be committed to learning more about the dogs behind our potential sires.

We are, of course, in a much better situation when we know what is in the pedigrees of the two dogs that we are about to breed. A dog that is a bit fine of bone that comes from a line of dogs that has an established history of producing heavy-boned dogs should reasonably be expected to sire puppies with heavier bone than he possesses. A dog with an average coat that has a majority of dogs with superior coats in the pedigree will throw puppies with out-standing coats with a significant amount of regularity.

The same can be said of faults and defects. Let me use hip dysplasia as an example. It is better (in theory) to breed a mildly dysplastic dog whose littermates are all dysplasia-free than to breed a dysplasia-free dog whose littermates are all dysplastic. (It does take a moment to work your way through the logic, does it not?) How-ever, it is true. The most proper course of action for the vast majority of us is simply to breed dysplasia-free dogs each and every time, continually build-ng pedigree depth for good hips.

“IT IS BETTER (IN THEORY) TO BREED A MILDLY DYSPLASTIC DOG WHOSE LITTERMATES ARE ALL DYSPLASIA-FREE THAN TO BREED A DYSPLASIA-FREE DOG WHOSE LITTERMATES ARE ALL DYSPLASTIC.”

A common error that many breeders make when considering a potential sire is to judge a dog by looking at only one or two of his offspring, and possibly without ever having seen the dam of these get. The bitch is half of the equation and her quality (or lack of it) does have an impact on the stud dog’s reputation. We should experience greater success if we consider the dog and the whole of his pedigree. Why? Because there is little way of knowing if the one or two puppies observed are his best, his worst, or something in the middle. Judging the quality of a sire’s puppies works only when you have the opportunity to evaluate a sizeable sample of his get.

Our most important chore in selecting the superior sire for our bitch is quite likely deciding exactly what faults we consider most serious. The decision is somewhat simplified for us if we understand the “why” behind the qualities demanded in our breed standard. For example, if your bitch’s greatest weakness is her topline and the stud dog that you prefer to use does not possess an especially strong topline – you cannot expect the resulting puppies to have rock solid top lines. You must choose another, using a sire that possesses an excellent topline and has a record of producing puppies with the type of topline you desire.

Once you decide exactly what conformational qualities you will insist upon, you have a sound starting point to work from in your search for the superior sire for your litter. You should immediately disqualify all stud dogs that do not possess the virtues that you demand. You may also eliminate all potential sires that do not possess the positive traits necessary to offset your bitch's weaknesses. Now that you have narrowed your list, you can begin to get picky.

It goes without saying that anything but the best of temperament should immediately disqualify a dog as a potential sire. I would much rather share any time and affection with a canine companion of lesser quality with a sweet disposition than with a dog of excellent conformation that is nasty and bad-tempered. I do not know how to say it any simpler than that.

Now that we are down to a few truly good dogs, we will, of course, want to obtain copies of their pedigrees if not done earlier. This allows us to complete sample pedigrees of the puppies that would result from a breeding of our bitch and the potential sires. This is a great way to see just how close a linebreeding or outcross we might be doing. It should be hoped that we know a good deal about the majority of the dogs in the first three generations of each of these pedigrees. If our bitch's line is lacking in some particular quality, we must find a dog whose line is very strong for the traits we desire most.

Now is not the time for us to be shy. We should ask if the potential sire has been tested for any of the genetic concerns prevalent in our breed. If the owners of potential sires live close, we should schedule a social visit so we can get hands-on with the dog. This is also a great time to evaluate his temperament. Disposition is as hereditary as any other trait. You must consider this: what will his puppies be like?

We do enjoy a certain level of assurance as to the overall quality of the potential sires if they are already champions, grand champions, or even are already on their way with both majors. There are, of course, exceptions to this premise. Do not overlook a truly outstanding dog that may have simply never been shown due to injury experienced in his youth and could not be shown. Remember, there is a real power in a pedigree.

Once we have selected the superior sire and a runner-up, we must get in touch with the owners to see if our bitch must meet any special requirements to breed to their dog. This is not normally the case, but it is better to be safe than sorry for planning an impossible breeding in advance. It is important for the owner of the stud dog to know when we expect our bitch to come in sea-son. If the stud dog is actively being shown, he may be on the road. It is also possible that another bitch may be on his schedule for the same time frame, thus the need for an alternate.

It may not reasonably be expected that every puppy in a litter will be shown and finish his or her championship, but every puppy can be given the very real possibility of doing so with a well-planned breeding. For anyone who believes this all sounds like just too much work, believe me, many breeders have found their love of the breed and their hard labor well worth the results.

Dedicated and conscientious breeders seem to know that advances in producing the perfect dog will be achieved incrementally. It will take time and a great deal of effort. We will not achieve our breeding aims by doing anything extraordinary, but rather by doing the ordinary very well.

Stud Dog Reproductive Health

By: Jenna Bullis

Since 1997 I have worked at Guide Dogs for the Blind (GDB), one of the largest service dog schools in the world.

I spent the first half of my career as a Guide Dog Mobility Instructor, training Labrador Retrievers, Golden Retrievers, German Shepherds, and Lab x Golden crosses as service dogs then matching them to blind or visually impaired handlers and teaching the team to travel smoothly and independently together.

In 2011 I took the role of Breeding Manager and I am privileged to manage the largest breeding colony in North America and to consult and collaborate with partner service dog organizations all over the world.

While I am not a veterinarian, I am fortunate to work closely with Dr Kristine Gonzales, DVM, DACT who is a board-certified theriogenologist, to ensure the reproductive health of GDBs valuable breeding stock. The following information on issues related to stud dog fertility comes from my experience working with Dr Gonzales as well as various veterinary journals and other reference material and is not a substitute for qualified veterinary care.

Basic Anatomy

To better understand the reproductive health of our stud dogs we need to understand some basic anatomy.

The reproductive anatomy of the male dog consists of the paired testes-epididymes within the scrotum, the vas deferentia, the prostate, the penis and the prepuce. The testes consist of multiple seminiferous tubules in which spermatogenesis take place. These tubules empty into a fibrosis center called the rete testis which connects to the head of the epididymis which is tightly adhered to each testis. Fluid and spermatozoa move from the testes into the epididymis and are stored at the tail of the epididymis. The prostate encircles the urethra at the neck of the urinary bladder.

The testicular tissue is surrounded by a tight capsule which gives the testes the consistency of a peeled hard-boiled egg when palpated. Softening of the testes may indicate testicular degeneration, hypoplasia, atrophy, or abnormal development. Hardness of the testes may indicate testicular fibrosis, neoplasia, or inflammation. Like routine mammary checks, stud dog owners should routinely gently palpate the dog's testes to pick up on subtle changes.

The urethra runs through the center of the penis and is surrounded by cavernous tissue of empty honeycomb space which fills with blood during erection. The urethra is also surrounded on part of its length by a bone called the os penis. The os penis is what allows the male to introduce the penis into the vagina of the bitch before erection is complete. The proximal portion of the penis which is always larger than the shaft of the penis is the bulbus glandis. The bulbus glandis will treble in size and is the portion of the penis that is caught in the vulvar lips and creates the copulatory lock or tie during a natural breeding.

Sexual Maturity And Behavior

Animals of most species go through puberty and become sexually mature once they reach about 80% of their adult weight. The only way to know for sure if a male is fertile is to breed him or to collect semen for evaluation. The single greatest mistake people make regarding a male dog is to assume he is fertile. Past litters are not a guarantee of present fertility. Stud dog owners should consider a Breeding Soundness Evaluation every year especially after the age of 5 to ensure the male is fertile. There is great individual variation of fertility, with some male's fertility beginning to decline at 5 or 6 and some remaining fertile until 12 or older. A breeding soundness evaluation is conducted by a veterinarian (ideally a board-certified reproductive specialist). A complete medical history is taken including vaccination history, dates of illness or injury, a complete sexually history should include results of brucellosis tests, past semen evaluations, the number of females bred and results of those breedings.

Erection and ejaculation are not hormonally mediated processes, both are under the control of the autonomic nervous system. This is important to note for a couple of reasons.

1. Erection and ejaculation can occasionally occur in castrated dogs.
2. Intact males who do not exhibit erection and ejaculation and are assumed to have poor libido may suffer from pain when attempting to mount and breed females or may have a psychological block to mating.

Animals with poor libido should be evaluated for abnormalities of pain in the hindlimbs, spine or prostrate. Semen collection or breeding to non-dominant bitches in different surrounding may be attempted. Too frequent ejaculation can also be a cause of poor libido.

Spermatogenesis – The Process Of Sperm Development

The seminiferous tubules within the testes is the site of formation of spermatozoa. The tubules contain 2 populations of immature cells, called spermatogonia.

1. The reserve population which is resistant to damage to the testes from radiation, toxins, or other insults.
2. The proliferating population. Spermatogonia from the proliferating population divide several times so that each spermatogonia forms multiple spermatozoa (an individual sperm).

These developing spermatozoa embed in cells within the walls of the tubule and within each tubule there are cells at all stages of development. New spermatozoa are always being produced whether or not the male is ejaculating regularly. Once the spermatozoa are fully developed, they leave the testis and enter the epididymis where they are stored. It takes 62 days from division of spermatogonium to ejaculation; therefore, any insult or injury to the testis will not be reflected by a change in semen quality for at least 62 days.

Semen Evaluation

A breeding soundness exam should include an evaluation of the semen. Semen can be collected from a dog with or without the presence of a bitch. Many male dogs can be collected without the presence of a bitch using digital manipulation alone. The ejaculate collected without a bitch present usually is adequate to assess the dog's breeding soundness. The benefits of using an in-season bitch during semen collection include better responsiveness of the dog to collection and a higher total number of spermatozoa in the ejaculate.

Semen is ejaculated in 3 fractions. This first fraction, or pre sperm fraction, is a clear to slightly cloudy fluid that comes from the prostrate and clears the urethra. The second, or sperm rich fraction comes from the epididymis and contains the spermatozoa. The third fraction, or prostatic fraction, is a large volume of clear fluid that helps promote the movement of spermatozoa cranially in the vagina of the bitch during natural breeding.

The components of a semen evaluation include measurement of volume, assessment of color, subjective assessment of the percentage of progressively motile spermatozoa, determination of concentrations and total number of spermatozoa in the ejaculate, and assessment of spermatozoa morphology(shape)

VOLUME

Volume itself is not an indicator of semen quality because it is dependent on the amount of prostatic fluid collected. However, the volume must be recorded when calculating the total number of spermatozoa in the collection.

COLOR

Color is a superficial indicator of semen quality and possible contamination of semen. Semen should be milky or opalescent. Yellow is indicative of urine contamination, brown or red indicates that blood is present in the semen. Brown discoloration is due to old blood and is usually associated with prostate disease. Red discoloration is due to fresh blood and can be associated with prostrate disease or trauma to the penis. Clear fluid indicates a lack of spermatozoa in the ejaculate.

MOTILITY

The percentage of progressively motile spermatozoa is assessed by evaluating a drop of semen on a glass slide examined microscopically at 40 to 100x magnification. Evaluation must happen quickly as motility declines rapidly as the microscope light heats the drop of semen on the slide. Evaluation will commonly include a subjective assessment of total motility, progressive motility (those moving forward) and speed. Commonly accepted normal values are greater than 70% total motility, greater than 80% progressive motility with a speed rating of "fast." Speed ratings are typically expressed as "slow" "moderate" or fast."

CONCENTRATION AND TOTAL NUMBER

Concentration of spermatozoa can be evaluated with automated equipment or by hand. Concentration alone is not a valuable number because it varies with the amount of prostatic fluid collected. The important value is the total number of spermatozoa in the ejaculate. Total number is calculated by multiplying concentration (spermatozoa by mL) by volume (mL per ejaculate, or collection). For example, if the total volume collected was 5 mL and the concentration was calculated at 40 million per mL the total number of spermatozoa in that collection would be 200 million. The normal total number of spermatozoa in the ejaculate is variable ranging from 300 million to 2 billion. Large breed dogs have a higher total number of spermatozoa per ejaculate than small breed dogs due to larger testicular mass.

MORPHOLOGY

Morphology most often is assessed by staining the semen sample and observing the cells under 1000X magnification. At least 100 individual spermatozoa are examined. The number of normal spermatozoa in 100 is the percentage morphologically normal spermatozoa. Total normal for the sample is calculated by multiplying the total number of spermatozoa in the ejaculate by percentage morphologically normal. Commonly accepted values are greater than 80% morphologically normal spermatozoa and greater than 200 million total normal spermatozoa in an ejaculate.

INTERPRETATION OF SEMEN QUALITY

A dog should never be labeled as subfertile or infertile based on the results of one semen evaluation. Very young or very old dogs may not have "normal" semen quality but may be sufficient to effect pregnancy. Male dog must introduce at least 250 million normal spermatozoa into a bitch during her fertile period to reliably effect pregnancy. This can occur during one breeding or over the course of several breedings.

Semen quality may be poor if the dog has not been bred or collected recently. Aged spermatozoa stored in the epididymis may be morphologically abnormal so if a collection contains normal numbers of sperm with poor percentages of progressive motility and poor morphology, semen should be collected again before any decision should be made about the dog's fertility.

How frequently you can breed a dog can vary between males. It is important to remember that it takes 62 days to create a sperm cell and new sperm is constantly being developed while mature sperm is stored in the epididymis. A dog the size of a PWD is probably storing approximately 4 billion sperm in the epididymis and a young healthy male is likely ejaculating on average about 700 million sperm per ejaculation. So, it's basic mathematics. You can probably collect your male, who's healthy and fertile six or seven days in a row without "running out" of mature sperm.

Before reviewing some of the more common fertility concerns, we must remind ourselves of the seriousness of Canine Brucellosis and the importance of regular testing. There are regular reports of this disease and human cases are rising in the US. Currently 3 US states require euthanasia of all positive dogs. Increased management of the disease by the government (think like rabies) is being reviewed and euthanasia may be mandated at some point.

It is good to remember this is not just a disease related to breeding your dogs. Breeding can transmit it, but so can direct face to face contact, sharing water bowls, smelling urine/feces, etc. It is shed in higher numbers by intact dogs but can also be shed by neutered and spayed animals and is an incurable infection that can cause flu symptoms and sometimes serious illness in humans.

Canine Brucellosis

Brucellosis is a highly contagious sexually transmitted disease that affects both male and female dogs and results in infertility. In females it can cause abortion or result in stillborn or weak puppies that may die a few days after birth.

Canine brucellosis is a zoonotic disease, or a disease that can be transmitted from animals to humans. Canine brucellosis is a contagious bacterial infection caused by the bacterium, Brucella canis (B. canis). Different species of Brucella infect sheep, goats, cattle, deer, elk, pigs, and other animals. Brucellosis has been reported in dogs in both the United States and in Canada, with many of these cases originating in dogs imported from other parts of the world.

Since the disease is a major threat to the breeding capability of dogs, all dogs used for breeding purposes should be tested regularly (e.g., every 3-6 months, depending on exposure to other dogs), and new dogs should never be introduced into a kennel situation until they have been quarantined and then tested for the disease. In the United States and in some Canadian provinces, brucellosis is a reportable disease, meaning that the disease is of great public health importance, and veterinarians and physicians are required to report all positive cases to federal or provincial authorities. Although antibiotics are used to help control the infection, no treatment is completely effective at eliminating the bacteria, as it can persist in tissues. As a result, any dog that has been infected with B. canis should be considered infected for life.

Common Fertility Issues

Finally, while this is not an exhaustive list, I would like to cover a few of the more common fertility issues seen in male dogs.

ORCHITIS AND EPIDIDYMITIS

Orchitis (inflammation of the testis) and epididymitis (inflammation of the epididymis) may occur separately but often occur together. This occurs more commonly in young dogs but can occur at any age. The most common cause is direct trauma and infection. It can be present in one or both testes. Brucella canis is associated with epididymitis and must be considered a rule out whenever testicular or epididymal swelling is present. In the acute phase of the infection the scrotum is enlarged and painful. After the initial inflammatory reaction subsides the testes atrophy, become small and firm and nonpainful. Treatment is typically castration. In valuable breeding dogs with apparent involvement of only one testis one can consider removing only the affected testis with good fertility possible within 6 months of surgery.

TESTICULAR NEOPLASIA

The most common cancer in the reproductive tract of male dogs and the second most common type of tumor overall in intact males. It generally occurs in older dog with the average age of onset at about 10 yrs old. Affected dogs usually present with non-painful enlargement of the scrotum and the affected testis. The non affected testis often atrophies and is soft. These tumors can be malignant and can metastasize. Castration is curative in most cases. In valuable breeding dogs with apparent involvement of only one testis one can consider removing only the affected testis.

BENIGN PROSTATIC HYPERTROPHY/HYPERPLASIA (BPH) - is an age-related phenomenon and by 5 years of age all intact males have some degree of BPH. Some dogs may have BPH with no clinical signs. The most common clinical sign is dripping of bloody fluid from the tip of the penis unassociated with urination. This clinical sign may be evident only when the male is exposed to an in-season female, which causes prostatic contractions. An enlarged prostate can also press against the colon causing straining to defecate or passing of ribbon-like feces. Dogs with BPH generally have normal semen quality and blood in the ejaculate does not appear to alter fertility for natural breeding or artificial insemination with fresh semen. However, semen with blood in the ejaculate is unsuitable to use as fresh chilled or freezing. The presence of BPH predisposes dogs to prostate infection which can alter semen quality.

Treatment may not be necessary for dogs with no clinical signs. If treatment is required castration is the quickest and best therapy. In valuable breeding animals the human drug finasteride (Proscar or Propecia) may be used to decrease prostate size and improvement in most dogs is seen in 4 to 6 weeks. The prostate will increase in size again once drug therapy is ended. Breeding dogs on finasteride has not been associated with small litter size or birth defects in puppies.

PROSTATITIS (INFLAMMATION OF THE PROSTATE)

This is usually secondary to BPH and more common in older males. Prostatitis can be acute or chronic. Dogs with acute prostatitis exhibit pain when ejaculation, are lethargic and inappetent and may have stiff rear limbs. Dogs with chronic prostatitis may not show clinical signs. Semen quality suffers in dogs with prostatitis and therefore dogs may have a history of infertility. Primary treatment is antibiotic therapy and treatment of the underlying BPH also may be necessary. Dogs with persistent prostatitis should be castrated.

FRACTURE OF THE OS PENIS

Any trauma to the penis may fracture the os penis. Dogs with fracture may not show clinical signs or may exhibit inability to urinate or pain during urination, bruising or swelling of the penis, or inability or reluctance to breed. Fracture of the os penis is best diagnosed with radiographs. Obvious wounds should be cleaned and surgically repaired if necessary. Antibiotics may be given to prevent infection. If the bone is not displaced healing can occur without directly accessing the os penis. Dogs should be housed away from in-season bitches and sexual arousal should be avoided. Prognosis for fertility is guarded.

I hope this article is helpful for stud dog and brood bitch owners to better understand some of the complexities of reproductive health and considerations when planning your future litters. Always consult your veterinarian.

But Doc, I don't need a pre-breeding exam for my dog!

By Dr. Marty Greer DVM (Via Dr. Greer Facebook Post dated April 7th, 2017)

I know, you have been breeding for 30 years. And you know your dog inside and out. And yet, those crazy veterinarians associated with the Society of Theriogenology still insist that you pay them for a pre-breeding examination and consultation. That just rubs you wrong as a breeder, right? Why do they make you pay your hard earned money for an exam when you have it all under control?

Well, sometimes, just sometimes we do know what we are talking about. Last week, one of my very experienced clients who happens to be in the human medical field had her examination and found out that her beloved girl has lymphoma. She went in for her first progesterone test and at the examination, the veterinarian discovered she had enlarged lymph nodes. On further examination, it was determined to be cancer. Of course, she is devastated. But not nearly as devastated as she would have been if she had bred her only to find out she had a fatal disease.

How was she diagnosed? Based on a comprehensive physical examination and a cytology on her enlarged lymph nodes, she was spared from breeding a sick dog. She can now treat her for lymphoma and manage her disease for as long as possible. Can you imagine finding out during her pregnancy she was sick.

What else have we found on your Pre-breeding exams? Mammary tumors, ear infections (no steroid use during pregnancy, even ear or eye drops), vaginal strictures, heart murmurs, tumors in the spleen, and torn cruciate ligaments. And why do we do blood work before anesthesia for surgical breedings? We have found liver disease, kidney failure, infections, and acute lymphocytic leukemia. Sometimes we can treat the diseases or disorders and sometimes we decide with you that breeding her on this heat or ever is not well advised. No one wants to purchase a puppy from a mother who was sick.

The same holds true for our stud dogs. We want to be sure they are in great health. And a semen collection and analysis can assure that he will have quality semen – we have found prostate infections, benign prostatic hypertrophy or worse yet, are sterile. This still gives the owner of the female time to find their “Plan B” stud dog.

Why else do we actually make you pay us for your Pre-breeding examination and Consultation? To discuss your breeding options. Are you going to use fresh, fresh chilled and shipped, or frozen semen. Is the stud dog going to be available for a collection and shipment when you need him? Does he have quality semen. How are you going to ship the semen? Is there a holiday looming that will interfere with shipping and receiving semen when we need it? Can be plan around that?

And how are we going to do the breeding? With a natural breeding – be sure he has sperm and she doesn't have a stricture. What happens if you can't get a tie? Did you have progesterones to assure she is ready to breed? Are we going to intervene with a vaginal AI or a TCI (Transcervical insemination with the scope, a non-anesthetic procedure)? If we are using fresh chilled semen, are we going to breed with a vaginal insemination, a TCI or a surgical breeding? And with frozen semen, are we going to breed with TCI or surgical breeding? We discuss the quality and type of the semen, the age of the stud dog and female, their fertility history, how important the breeding is, how the puppies are going to be born, and what your backup plan is if all your careful planning falls apart.

After all of this, you have a veterinarian experienced in knowing what health concerns to evaluate your dog for before breeding, in planning for your first choice and for unforeseen eventualities. We can frequently head off crises in advance by having this examination and planning meeting. I think that is worth the time and money it takes – to do our best to make your breedings come off without a hitch and lead to a successful breeding, pregnancy, and delivery of a healthy litter of puppies.

THE ROAD TO WESTMINSTER

BY: AARON TURNOF

I was born into a household where there was already a dog before my very existence. My father was never allowed to have a dog as a child growing up in the Bronx. So, what does any responsible young, married man do yearning for a canine companion in the late 1960s? He researches, reads, attends dog shows, and speaks to breeders. Then, three months after my older sister was born, Sheba, our Welsh Terrier, entered my family's lives. I guess to Sheba, I was just an intrusion two plus years later to the trio she had already come to know since she was a puppy.

After a few years, my parents became small hobby breeders of Welsh Terriers. I must have been the only kid in my elementary school who eventually got sick and tired of puppies. To a young child, being cajoled into helping care for puppies stopped being fun when they preoccupied my parents' free time and decided to use me as their teething toy. However, I was probably the only first grader in my school to witness "the birds and the bees" in my living room.

I cared for Sheba, but it was hard to love a dog who did not care about me. After all, Sheba's personality was the epitome of old-school Welsh Terriers. Fast forward to my teenage years, when my sister and I convinced my parents to get another dog about a year after Sheba passed away. Sticking with the need for minimally allergic dogs, we got Kodi, our Soft Coated Wheaten Terrier.

Kodi embodied everything I was looking for at the time. He was a terrier but without the stubbornness or independence of one. He was actually loving and liked human companionship. Kodi could even be obedience trained...on lead only, of course, as he was still a terrier. We bonded quickly, and he became my de facto dog. Harkening back to my parents' early canine years, I asked to show Kodi myself. As you can imagine, it was extremely tough given my lack of experience, my age, and the need for funding. Unlike most other children my age, I quickly dreamed of my dog going to Westminster. These teenage pipe dreams and ambitions quickly ended when Kodi broke his right rear leg in an accident. The veterinarian set the leg incorrectly, resulting in a turned-out foot with a hop in his gait from time to time. Kodi was the first dog I truly loved, and he opened my eyes to what was possible in the dog world.

As a young teenager, it was also then that the fire was lit to get a dog to Westminster. To be able to win breed at Westminster was such an extreme dream that I never told a single soul as I thought it too embarrassing and fantastic ever to verbalize.

Kodi passed away a couple of years after I graduated college, and I mourned his loss. Little did I know that it would be about a dozen years till my life truly needed another dog. This was the longest period I have ever been without a canine companion, and this fact was always at the forefront of my mind. I truly felt my life was incomplete, but I knew I did not have the time to commit to owning and properly caring for a dog. When I was proposing to my wife, for example, I warned her that she needed to know two things before marrying me: one of those things was that we would always have dogs.

Dagr - Puppy Dec. 2021

2021 PWDCA National Specialty with Dagr and sister Jazzy

In 2007, Electra, my first Portuguese Water Dog, fortunately, came into my life due to my medical needs. Still needing a minimally allergic dog, I was much more personally in need of a seizure-alert dog. Thanks to Patty and Liz Volz, my needs became a reality. Electra subsequently spent about a year and a half training as a seizure-alert dog.

Electra was phenomenal. She looked out for me, was super bright, and was great with my kids. Her one weakness, however, was that she was the epitome of PWD food thieves. Truth be told, after growing up with terriers, it took me about two years to build up enough confidence to allow Electra off lead outside. I do not doubt that Electra could have garnered multiple obedience and performance titles. However, Electra's duties were destined for a higher cause.

I was so heartbroken after losing Electra that I could not fathom getting another Portuguese Water Dog. Our bond was special, and I did not think it could ever be duplicated. She was there for me at some of the lowest points in my life. Therefore, blinded by my love for Electra and not wanting to be reminded of the loss, I made the huge mistake of getting a different breed. This turned out to be a one-year disaster.

However, if anything good came out of this blunder, it was the realization to never turn my back on the Portuguese Water Dog breed again and honor Electra's memory by continuing with it. Thanks to Jill Roudebush of Maritimo Portuguese Water Dogs, Dagr came into our family's lives at the end of December 2020. The name Dagr is partly a tribute to Electra, as it is a Norse mythological name meaning the embodiment of daylight. This is why his AKC registered name is Maritimo's Radiant Light of the Day, as he truly was a ray of sunshine after the darkness experienced by Electra's loss and the subsequent dog's issues.

At this stage of my life, I was interested in Dagr possibly being shown in conformation. My teenage son Cole quickly realized he wanted to get into handling as his dad had tried to, so many years earlier. With guidance from our trainer, Heike Frattalone, Cole became a much better trainer/handler than I ever was as a teenager, and Dagr showed so much potential. We subsequently decided to pair Dagr with a professional handler at six months, and in four weekends, he was a Champion at seven months old.

Even with selective showings by a Junior Handler, we recognized Dagr was something special. So, we applied for the Westminster lottery selection in 2022 and obtained a slot. With all the work Cole put into our dog, who better to be rewarded with showing Dagr there than my son? And how special that my son would help me along the road to realizing my childhood dreams. Cole handled Dagr proudly and professionally that rainy day, but Dagr did not make it past the first cut. It didn't matter.

April 2023 W. Springfield, MA Bronze win

Having my dream become a reality, with my son no less, was more than I could ever ask for.

To finish his Grand Championship, Dagr went out to the Midwest for six weeks after Westminster 2022, where he racked up a bunch of points and Best of Breeds. When he returned, we decided never to send out Dagr again as he was, first and foremost, a family dog, and we missed him terribly. As such, Cole continued to handle him regionally with some professional handling augmenting the days Cole's schooling conflicted.

Cole continued to show Dagr, adding points, putting some Best of Breeds and group placements on him along the way, and getting his Bronze. Our Midwest handlers, when our paths crossed, continued to supplement Dagr's showing as well. So, when the applications for the Westminster 2023 lottery opened and with Dagr fully matured, we audaciously entered once again, never thinking we would be lucky enough to get a second chance; but we did. The rest is now Westminster history. Cole decided to relinquish handling to Jordan Waters, and the combination proved to be the best in the ring that day.

Such sheer joy has rarely brought me to the verge of tears, but that day, sharing that moment with my family was more than words can ever begin to express. My lofty teenage dreams becoming a reality was overwhelming, to say the least. And to do it all with our family dog made the win much more rewarding. And for Cole, it only helped cement the decision he had already made to work as an assistant handler this summer. As for Dagr, we love him no more and no less. The only difference is that he is a bit more well-known within the breed and with inquiring minds. Not all dogs can win breed at Westminster, but we can treat them like the winners they are, of our hearts and minds.

Form Follows Function: Toes Up!

by Stephanie Hedgepath Show Sight Magazine, March 2023 | showsightmagazine.com
This article was a requested submission by the PWDCA Breeders Education Committee

In a previous article on the foot of the dog, I wrote about the adage: “No hoof, no horse,” common in the 18th century in North America, which speaks to how important the feet are to an animal.

A lame horse is useless to its owner. The same can be applied to the dog: “No foot, no dog.” I first heard the phrase used to describe a dog when judging an ARBA show in the late 1990s. A fellow judge, whom I greatly admired, chastised me for placing a hound in the Group with faulty feet. His comments led to a great discussion and the beginning of a good friendship. The feet are the foundation on which the dog is “built.” Just as the foundation of a building must be solid, so must the feet of the dog be correct for its breed.

Dogs are digitigrade animals; this means that the weight-bearing surface of their limbs is their digit (toe). The canine phalanges are, thus, very important. They are virtually identical in their structure in the hindlimb and forelimb. The main differences are that in the forelimb we have metacarpals and the metacarpophalangeal joint, and the hindlimb equivalents are the metatarsals and the metatarsophalangeal joint.

The feet serve as a base of support for the dog, as a cushion to absorb shock, provide traction to start movement, and as a brake to stop. Each of the toes (digits/phalanx bones) is supported by a pad composed of thick layers of fat and connective tissue covered with several layers of skin forming a thick, horny skin. This thick skin makes it possible for the dog to comfortably work over many types of terrain, from abrasive to slick and slippery, which also varies greatly in temperature. The pads serve as a weight-bearing, shock-absorbing cushion and aid in traction.

The anatomy of the canine foot is composed of the toes, which have three bones, and the pasterns plus their pads, the dewclaw (no pads), and the carpal pad (Figure 1). The foot (both front and rear) has four functional toes, each containing three bones. These three bones are the toenails or distal phalanx (Figure 2), the middle phalanx (toe) bone (Figure 3), and the proximal phalanx (toe) bone (Figure 4). Each toe has a pad. The dewclaw, if not removed, differs from the other four in that it only contains two bones. The pastern contains the four metacarpal bones (Figure 5).

The toenails are composed of keratin, enabling the dog to grip the ground and scratch (both the ground and themselves) and help maintain a grip on something they are chewing. The average dog has four functional toes (digits) and may be born with a fifth toe called the dewclaw, located on the inner side of the pastern on the front leg, and is considered to have lost most or all of its original function. Dewclaws may also be found on the rear legs. Several breeds require dewclaws on some or all of the legs, but on the average dog, they are usually removed, especially if they have no contact with the ground.

Next comes the metacarpal bones in the foot, commonly called the pastern (Figure 6). These bones, similar to the human palm, join the pastern joint (carpus joint) with the toes (digits) of the dog. Four metacarpal bones (five, if the dewclaw is not removed) lead to one of the toes. Of the four, the outer bones (leading to the two outside toes) are shorter than the inner ones (leading to the two center toes). These metacarpal bones relate to the palm of the human hand—between the wrist and the fingers. The breeder must understand that the dog walks only on the toes/digits of his foot (Figure 6).

The carpal pads are found on the front feet further up the foot near the wrist or pastern joint. They are of the same structure as the pads under the toes. The carpal pad (Figure 1) comes into play on steep or slippery surfaces by helping the dog to retain its balance, and is also sometimes referred to as the “stopper pad,” working as a brake. This pad also supports the crouching/crawling dog (think Border Collie approaching livestock) as it moves over rough terrain.

The metacarpal pads on the front feet (metatarsal on the rear) are the largest pads on the dog’s foot and are located behind the pads of the toes. As with the toe pads, the metacarpal (forepaw) and metatarsal or plantar (rear paw) pads provide shock absorption and traction.

Please note that the construction of the rear feet may be smaller than the front feet, depending on the breed. My reason for this review of the correct composition of the canine foot is that I am concerned about a fault

I have noticed in the foot with which I was unfamiliar. Over the past several years, I have noticed when judging that I see more and more dogs in several different breeds (mostly in [Golden Retrievers, Australian Shepherds, German Shepherd Dogs, and Standard Poodles) with the toes of their feet pointing upward so that you can see the pads. I first noticed it on the rear feet, and then it started appearing on the front feet as well. This fault needs to be eradicated.

During my research, I have found only two references concerning this abnormality. The first was during conversations with Pat Hastings, who referred me to her book, Structure in Action, The Makings of a Durable Dog, co-authored with Wendy E. Wallace and Erin Ann Rouse. The other comments were found in Canine Form Follows Function, Separating Fact from Fiction by Jeanne Joy Harnagle-Taylor.

The Harnagle-Taylor book states: "When the heart-shaped heel or plantar pads are thin and poorly developed, and the ligaments are lax, it allows the heel to roll backward. The four smaller digital pads tip upward, shifting the dog's weight on the digital sesamoid bones rather than upon the pads. The sesamoids create mechanical leverage and assist with weight-bearing for tendons. Consequently, the dog's ability to absorb impact and resist tensile and compressive forces produced during muscle contractions is greatly reduced. It also exposes the webbing to injury. This is a severe fault since dogs need sound feet to accomplish their inherited tasks."

From Pat Hasting's book: "Rolling Off Pads. Dogs are meant to walk on the pads of their feet and the pads cushion the foot, helping to absorb the concussion of motion. A dog should never roll off of its pads to where the pads show from the front of the foot. However, rolling off pads is becoming a common problem in Golden Retrievers, Samoyeds, Australian Shepherds, and several other breeds. It is caused by connective tissue that is too loose or too long. At one time, we only saw this problem in the rear feet, but now it is also shows in the front feet."

I have found all of this to be true, especially the fact that it is no longer seen only in the back feet but also in the front feet. This abnormality will eventually cause a breakdown in the metacarpophalangeal joint (Figure 8) at the junction of the #2 phalanx bone and #3 metacarpal bone, where the sesamoid bones (#4) are embedded. It is the same on the rear foot.

From Miller's Anatomy of the Dog: "The sesamoid bones are present near freely moving joints. They are usually formed in tendons, but they may be developed in the ligamentous tissue over which tendons pass. They usually possess only one articular surface, which glides on a flat or convex surface. Their chief function is to protect tendons where the greatest friction is developed."

I hope breeders will pay closer attention to eradicating this fault before it becomes even more entrenched in

As she was the first one I asked about this abnormality of the canine foot, I cannot help to think of the significant loss to the fancy with the passing of Pat Hastings. Pat was always open to any discussion concerning the dog. If she did not readily know the answer to a question, she would keep looking until she found it. Even if we did not agree on a subject, we were always open to hearing the opinion of the other. I will sorely miss our discussions.

Stephanie Hedgepath

My involvement with the world of showing dogs began in 1969 with the purchase of my first show dog, a German Shepherd Dog. In the mid-seventies I began breeding and showing Pembroke Welsh Corgis under the Jimanie prefix and have finished a championship on a Pembroke Welsh Corgi on the average of one a year for the last 45+ years - almost all were breeder/owner handled to their titles.

In 2010, I formed a loose partnership with two long-time friends, Denise Scott and Linda Stoddard, and we now breed and show under the Trifecta prefix.

I am a breeder/owner/handler and still breed and show. Over the years I have owned and shown dogs mostly from the Herding and Sporting Groups plus a few toy breeds. I started out showing dogs from the Herding Group, but as a hunter, I always had a "bird dog" and thus also showed Brittanys, Pointers, Golden Retrievers and Irish Setters over the years. I have finished dogs in several other breeds from the Sporting and Toy groups.

I started my judging career in 1988 with AKC approval to judge German Shepherds, Cardigan and Pembroke Welsh Corgis. I judge the Herding, Sporting and Toy groups and several of the Non-Sporting breeds, as well. I have been fortunate enough to have judged dogs all over the US and Canada and also in Finland, Norway, Sweden, Jamaica, New Zealand, Australia, Ireland, China, the Philippines, Mexico and the United Kingdom. In 2011, I was accorded the supreme honor of being asked to judge the Welsh Corgi League show in the UK and in previous years both the Cardigan and Pembroke Nationals in the US. I have also had the honor of having judged many National and Regional Specialties for breeds I did not breed, own or show from the sporting, herding and toy groups throughout the years, an assignment I always enjoy!

Some of the highlights of my judging career have been judging at Westminster Kennel Club in 2006, doing the Herding Group at the Rose City Classic in Portland (which was shown on Animal Planet), and the national specialties for Clumber Spaniels, Field Spaniels, Australian Shepherds, Miniature American Shepherd, Bouviers (Canada), and the Top Twenty competition for the Golden Retriever Club of America as well as both of the Corgi national specialties in the US and Pembrokes in Canada and the Welsh Corgi League show mentioned above.

I make my living as an artist, mostly through the design of counted cross-stitch and needlepoint, but also through paintings and sculpture, as well as jewelry. I have recently begun authoring and producing DVDs on the canine, mostly dealing with structure and movement. Last, but certainly not least, I've been married to Jim Hedgepath since 1972 and am the mother of two and the grandmother of four. Thank you for the honor of being invited to judge your dogs.

Celebrating 50 years of the PWDCA

SELECTING THE CORRECT PORTUGUESE WATER DOG A JUDGE'S CHALLENGE!

Maryanne B. Murray
Chairman, BREED STANDARD Committee
Portuguese Water Dog Club of America

*"This article originally appeared in the April, 2014
SHOWSIGHT magazine, submitted by the 2023 PWDCA Breed Standard Committee"*

Kudos on being selected to evaluate one of the official National Treasures of Portugal. Allow me to present for your consideration certain aspects of this breed which make it distinctive, celebrated and genuinely worthy of respect and admiration.

As you enter the ring for your Portuguese Water Dog judging assignment, there are three rather meaningful words which must serve as your mantra when deciding the ideal in this breed. Those words are - STRENGTH, SPIRIT and SOUNDNESS. These three embedded characteristics are key to the essence and the raison d'être of this working water wonder and underlie the totality of a correct Portuguese Water Dog. Imagine yourself drowning in the rough, open ocean and ask yourself - which of these dogs before me exhibits the innate power, the true grit and the core vigor to swim out and save my life? Is it the dog with minimal muscling and a timid temperament or is it the one with the long neck, the short hocks and the cute, mincing steps? Your decision is important - and you're right - neither of these dogs fits the description of a spirited, strong and brave lifesaver! A correct Portuguese Water Dog will provide an indelible impression of STRENGTH, SPIRIT and SOUNDNESS. Find that dog in your line-up and you will have done a commendable job of assessing this remarkable breed.

STRENGTH - The word "strong" is used in the Portuguese Water Dog Breed Standard ten times and the word "muscled" is used seven times. Other descriptive adjectives include powerful, rugged, robust, substantial, solid, well-developed and well-knit. This is a strong dog. This was a dog used in rough, open ocean waters to retrieve nets and gear, to herd schools of fish, to carry messages between boats, to guard the catch and often to save the life of an overboard fisherman. This canine crew member had to be solidly built, with well-developed muscles and strong, substantial bone. He needed a strong, fairly short neck and strong jaws to give him an advantage when dragging items through the water. Broad, well-flared nostrils for air intake and a broad, deep chest optimized his lung capacity for swimming distances. The dog you seek as closest to the ideal will be strong, rugged, solid and very muscular. Can you tell just by looking which dog that is? NO! You MUST put your hands on these dogs and feel for what your eye cannot discern. Get through and under the stylized presentations and feel for a dog of substance and STRENGTH. A clean, well groomed dog is desirable and pleasing to the eye - the hands, however, must be the final authority on the solidity of the underlying construction.

SPIRIT - To be capable of the work required of him, the Portuguese Water Dog must be quite spirited and brave as well as obedient and loyal to his master. His intelligence, never to be underestimated, contributes to his energetic nature and his successful work history. His exceptionally broad skull protects the source of that extraordinary intellect - always alert and ready for orders. The eyes provide clues - consider his steady and penetrating expression as

*“A CORRECT
PORTUGUESE WATER
DOG WILL PROVIDE AN INDELIBLE IMPRESSION OF STRENGTH, SPIRIT AND SOUNDNESS. ”*

SPIRIT - To be capable of the work required of him, the Portuguese Water Dog must be quite spirited and brave as well as obedient and loyal to his master. His intelligence, never to be underestimated, contributes to his energetic nature and his successful work history. His exceptionally broad skull protects the source of that extraordinary intellect - always alert and ready for orders. The eyes provide clues - consider his steady and penetrating expression as a natural reflection of his attentiveness and perhaps, his assessment of you! Whether a hardy, handsome male or a lovely, pleasing bitch – be certain the dog is “on the ball” and “tuned in” to his surroundings. A correct Portuguese Water Dog is a lion-hearted and plucky force of nature - the embodiment of spirit and intelligence! Be sure he is moved on a loose lead to accurately determine his joie de vivre. His movement is fluid and easy, proud and happy. Head held high and tail carried up strong, spirited and sound dog as closest to the ideal.

As the triple S mantra of STRENGTH, SPIRIT and SOUNDNESS embeds itself in your mind, it's now time to let go of any biases for or against coat type, color and clip. They are visual diversions and may serve to boggle the mind as there are, when combined, countless variations. Let them go! The triple S's are to be your guide. In your capacity as an AKC Judge, you already know basic canine structure and movement and what constitutes generic and almost universally applicable faults for all dogs. Need I mention that cow hocks, elbowing out, crabbing, moving close, sickle hocks and shyness are undesirable in the Portuguese Water Dog? I didn't think so. As an AKC Judge who takes his/her adjudication assignments to heart, you will have already committed the Breed Standard to memory and most importantly, you will be looking for the Portuguese Water Dog that exudes the triple S's.

and gallantly with his “flag” flying. Remember, carriage can be telling! Without a spirited nature, you do not have a correct Portuguese Water Dog.

SOUNDNESS - Hard work requires this breed to be structurally correct, physically and temperamentally healthy, in fit, robust condition, having all the proper parts and all of the moving parts performing their functions in a well-balanced, fluid manner. Brains and brawn – a combination which testifies to a correct Portuguese Water Dog and his noble working heritage. If there is reasonable doubt that a dog in your ring is unsound thus unqualified and/or unable to perform the strenuous historical tasks asked of him, then please, do not reward this lack of soundness. Generic dog faults abound in the AKC breed rings for all breeds – allow an unsound Portuguese Water Dog to walk from your ring with championship points and you have done a major injustice to the breed and its future. The sport of purebred dogs is intended to determine the very best specimens of a breed in order to breed the best to the best to get the best. A SOUND dog is a universal application – Portuguese Water Dogs are no different – hale and hearty, robust and rugged - choose the Specific characteristics, under the triple S banner, which are important for breed type are what you need on your “cheat sheet”. You can't be expected to know the breed as well as someone who owns and breeds them but you are expected to be familiar with what makes a Portuguese Water Dog unique. Your ideal will have the following. Overall look; slightly off square, robust and structurally unexaggerated. Movement; balanced, effortless, free-moving and never forced to cover more ground than he should. Structure; relatively short neck, deep chest, well-sprung ribs, broad, strong back and level topline, short loin, tail thick at the base and set on slightly below the line of the back, powerfully muscled hindquarters, rear legs parallel to each other and straight, angulation in balance with front assembly and a long rear pastern. Head; NO – this is NOT a head breed but the head is an important aspect of breed type with an exceptionally broad skull, a substantial muzzle with a very strong jaw, eyes set well apart and obliquely, a definitive stop, ears set well above the line of the eye and a prominent forehead with a central furrow you can only feel. Height at the shoulder is quite variable and acceptable so please, don't discount a smaller dog or bitch of quality nor reward a large dog because it looks impressive. The triple S components apply to the whole package and how it manifests these vital characteristics. The Portuguese Water Dog – heads up, tails up – an honest, able and sure tour de force!

A matter I must mention is that the Breed Standard lists seven Major Faults which, in the rest of the world, are considered to be Disqualifications. The AKC discouraged the Portuguese Water Dog Club of America from having these Disqualifications in its Standard and you need to know that when I say “discouraged” I’m being diplomatic. Please, Judges, pay attention to these Major Faults. Undershot dogs are becoming Champions; shy dogs, droopy tailed dogs, dogs refined in muscle and bone and snipey muzzled dogs as well are being rewarded with points. That is not appropriate in today’s breed ring. That is not appreciated by the dedicated caretakers of the breed. Seeing dogs with major faults become CH’s and then go on to the whelping box and breeding careers because of inappropriate judging decisions projects a dim light on the whole AKC judging process.

The Portuguese Water Dog Club of America has worked hard to preserve and protect this praiseworthy canine. The essence of the breed has been staunchly maintained in its Breed Standard and 76 years after the original Standard was committed to paper, Portuguese Water Dogs continue to reflect the image and the spirit of their noble working ancestors. Breeders have worked hard to follow the original blueprint and in doing so have preserved the integrity and uniqueness of this fisherman’s working companion.....a dog that exudes STRENGTH, SPIRIT and SOUNDNESS. Your educated assistance in our endeavor, Judges, is greatly appreciated.

Maryanne B. Murray has been involved with Portuguese Water Dogs since 1979 as an owner, breeder, exhibitor and recently as a judge. She has produced numerous PWD champions under her BRINMAR kennel name. Maryanne is currently Chairman of the PWDCA Breed Standard Committee and over the years has served as PWDCA President, Secretary, Director, Newsletter Editor, and Chairman of numerous committees. She received a Maxwell Award from the DWAA and is currently working on documenting the history of the PWDCA.

TIC TALK

BY KAREN PRATT, TIC CHAIR

A REGULAR ARTICLE IN THE COURIER TO FEATURE THE CLUB'S TECHNOLOGY.

Member Center

Formerly the “Members Only” section of the website, the Member Center is the hub of all PWDCA members-only material. (You must be signed into www.pwdca.org as a member to access all of these wonderful features!) Grab your favorite beverage and poke around and see what features you can find!

- Committees: An exhaustive list of each committee in the PWDCA. Committees are divided by type: Activities, Administrative, Breed Information, Health Information, and Special Committees. Click on the blue “View Committee Member Details” to see all of the committee members and be able to email them directly. Direct access to your Board members can also be found here.
- Documents: This is where all of the minutes, financial reports, and a few other important documents can be found (dating back to 2010).
- Forms: Links to all forms currently on the website
- Member Directory: Look up a member by name, city, state, kennel name. If you put in your city name, see if there are other members directly in your city! You can also download or print your own directory at any time.
- My Communications: Do you remember reading an email blast that came from the club and now can't find it in your inbox? Head here to look it up and be able to read it again.
- The Courier: get online access to previous editions of The Courier.
- Titles and Awards: Look up current standings for titles and awards of any PWD
- Volunteer: See current volunteer openings and apply for them!

Fun fact: Did you know that you can add a photo and bio about yourself so other members will be able to match your name to your face when they meet you? Once you're signed into Member Center, navigate down to “My Biography” to upload your photo and write your bio.
